Peter Panagore

Forty years as a spiritual counselor specializing in mysticism and Near-Death Experience

Peter Panagore died of hypothermia when he was twenty-one years old while ice climbing in Canada's Banff Provincial Park. He went to Heaven, encountered Ineffable Love, understood his true nature and consciousness, and was allowed the choice to stay or go back to a new life in his old body. He chose life for the sake of his family. Hear his incredible story from a master storyteller, and then stay for an always fascinating time of Q and A.
